To

Mr. H. A. Buerk

Our superintendent, the champion of football, the refuge of the boy in trouble, and the friend of every girl, who, because of his gentle kindliness, droll wit and great understanding of human nature has made of every Senior a true and loyal friend — we dedicate this book.

Farewell to High School

School days, so dear, so gay, so bright,
With daytime dreams neath sunlit sky;
We gaze upon your early flight
For you must die.

Dear books, whose pages we have read
And pondered o'er with aching eyes;
We have our lessons learned and said,
And lay you by.

True friends and faithful teachers too,
Who with our whims did mild comply,
We loved our happy hours with you,
But now they fly.

In our minds we fondly treasure
Sweet memories of days gone by,
Painted hues of joy and pleasure
That can not die.

Tornado Relief Work.

With this important list of achievements and honor roll students, the Speakers proudly claim the leadership of the Senior Class in scholarship, public speaking and spirit of co-operation in social and civic activities. This, they admit could only be accomplished with such a critic as Miss S. Van Arsdale.

Again we say, Thanks to Miss Van Arsdale and Hail to the Speakers!

THE WRANGLERS

The Wranglers have assumed new responsibilities during the past year—that of acting as a leader to the entire student body of boys. Besides their usual work in public speaking, debating and the annual banquet, they have successfully acted as leader in the "Boys' Exhibit," and the "Boys' Convention," and in the splendid relief work carried on by our High School boys for the tornado sufferers.

The Wranglers were especially hard hit this year, because only eight members were left from last term. In spite of this handicap, however, they had the only boy representatives in both the Tyler and Sapinsky contests, Philip Siff winning the silver medal in the latter.

There was only one disappointment to the Wranglers during this busy year, and that was that the Speakers refused to accept their challenge for the customary Speaker-Wrangler Debate.

DER DEUTSCHE VEREIN

The German Club ended its term work with a reception to the Seniors on May 26th. This year the club truly lived up to its name, for not only was the conversation German, but the entire meeting, parlimentary proceedings included, was carried on in the language which the club represented.

The organization has many musicians among its members and the programs very often contained German melodies, sung by the club quartette.

Did you notice that the chaperon of the E. N. S. Club was German? Of course you guess instantly that the mystic symbols are German, and for once you are—wrong. Immediately after the chapel talk of Mr. Dawe, of Washington, D. C., these Senior girls met and formed their society. The frivolous colors of royal purple and emerald green were chosen, and frivolous times were prepared for. Every member passed through a blood-curdling, hair-raising initiation ceremony.

But what has this to do with Mr. Dawe's talk, you ask? Have you so soon forgotten his admonition, "Assert yourself, and say, I am"? Written in the plural, it is, "Ecce Nos Sumas," "Behold! We Are."

Yes, they were the mysterious, aggravating group of girls known as the W. W.'s. Even in their Senior B year little sprouts of enthusiasm began to show—"Let's start with our fun—why wait"—and wait they did not. Have they ever been known to wait—in pleasure or in work? When the long green curtains of the auditorium closed for the last time on the caste of "Daddy Long Legs," a few nights before Christmas, the Argo Club had imprinted its name forever on the High School Roll of Fame. The Argo girls had organized when 9 A's with Lorraine Brod as their first president and introduced themselves to the school with an elaborate chapel program called, "The Temple of Fame."

Deciding though upon a better knowledge of the arts as their "golden fleece," the girls spent several semisters in the study of authors, artists and musicians. Today, they are reviewing the best American magazines. The distinguishing features of the Argo Club are the spirit of co-operation and comradeship of the girls, and this has been largely due to the inspiration and kindly supervision of Miss Mary Van Arsdale.

Truly patriotic, their last appearance in chapel was a spirited rally with music, talks, and a military drill to arouse genuine patriotism and practical patriotic service among High School students.

On the evening of March 17, the Lassies O' Liddesdale gave a St. Patrick's party, a quaint fantasy in an Irish setting. Flowers, ferns and old Irish wells filled the school hall.

All during the term they have been reading Burns' poetry, so now they have decided to experiment in out-door life. One thing is certain—that is that they are going to secure a tennis court; although, where, when, and how, they know not. This group of girls refuse absolutely to give up their meetings and expect to continue them all during the summer.

DELPHEAN

The 10A girls became prominent in High School activities on March 19, when as a newly organized society, they were at home to the 9-B girls, at a Saint Patrick's Day Reception.

Since then the twenty members of the Delphean Club have held literary and social meetings every other Wednesday afternoon, when they studied the works of Indiana authors and gave programs of short stories, musical numbers and dramatic readings. A real country picnic at Florence Snyder's home on the River Road will end the term's work.

The girls are enthusiastic about their work and hope during the remaining two years of their stay in N. A. H. S. to make the Delphean an organization long to be remembered.

The officers for this term were:.

England had her Cromwell, France had her Napoleon, and High School has her new Glee Club every St. Patrick's Day. Helck, Bates and Stein graduated into grand opera last year, so the new club is distinctly a Freshman-Sophomore affair.

The Glee Club came into the limelight by starting the St. Patrick's Day celebrations. As Mr. McLinn said: "The program was natural, simple, and was given with true Irish feeling."

FOOT BALL

Exceptional team work, based on the bull dog tenacity of the squad and resulting in a terrific attack, succeeded in bringing the N. A. H. S. eleven to the fore.

Beginning with the opening game on October seventh, in which Louisville Boys High sustained their laurels, by nosing out a 6 to 2 victory, the season was one of surprises, favorable and otherwise.

K. M. I. played up to their old standard and outplayed us by using the forward pass to advantage.

The defeat at Somerset, due entirely to the superior quality of the opponents' work which might rival that of many a college team, instead of dampening the New Albany ardor, resulted in bringing out the latent ability of the team.

The rest of the season was one of victory for us and shut-outs for our adversaries The teams representing Newcastle, the Calumet Club and the Breckinridge Athletic Club were easily out-classed.

The season ended in a glorious surprise on Thanksgiving day, when the Alumni, having several college heroes in the lineup, were compelled to bow to the plucky boys of the Black and Red.

The following players helped to bring the total of the season to 119 points for N. A. H. S. and to keep the opponents down to 90:

Burke	Randall	W. Bates	Helck
Renn	Goulding	Vernia	Coombs
A. Bates	Richards	Kelso	Stein
Myers	Turner	Tegarden	Winn

LETTER MEN OF 1917

Total score of the season:—N. A. H. S. 522; Opponents 441

N. A. H. S. 21. Corydon 17, was a good way to start our basketball season. Ten other games with the score in our favor gave us a splendid record. The last triumph came when we reached the half century mark in the game with Jeff.

With the showing made by our team this year, and with four "N" men returning, even the most cynical student won't hesitate to buy a season ticket for 1918, and expect to see the team win.

Much of the credit for the scoreboard results belongs to the coaching of Mr. Mueller and Mr. Ferguson.

Albert Bence and Mr. Doran wrestled with the financial side. Two things that helped them were the lectures by Dr. Bulgin at the Tabernacle and the Indian Princess Neawana. In both cases the sale of tickets was handled by the A. B. C.

"Girls may be a real encouragement to our athletes, but if there are only a few of them, there is not much inspiration. What our players need is a crowd." With this idea, the A. B. C. Club was organized. Each member pledged himself to attend all the games and "boost athletics." New yells, parades and a flaunting of colors announced their presence at every contest.

At the time of the tornado, the boys marched in a body to Anders Rasmussen's and helped to clear away the broken glass of his green houses. The name "Boosters" which is praise in itself, tells the purpose of the club.

WRITE-UPS WE HAVE NEVER SEEN

ANOTHER BORE!

The "Entertainers" Give Program.

How on earth this club had such a name with such a program is more than we can understand. "False Pretensions" would be much more suitable.

The audience might have enjoyed the solo of Gay Lark, had the accompaniment drowned out all the queer sounds coming from her throat. As it was, the least said of her, the better.

Horace Voyce's sing-song recitation of "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight" needed only the baton of our musical director as a finishing touch.

No one could possibly have recognized "Annie Laurie," as sung by Rose Busch, if it had not been announced by the chairman.

"Chopsticks," played moderately well, would have made a better impression than the murderous interpretation of Schubert's "Serenade" by Gladys Finger.

The crowning insult came when they attempted to close the program with the High School song. No more mention will be made of it.

THE LOYAL ROOTERS.

Four-and-twenty rooters,
  Sitting in the sun;
Listen to them yelling,
  Now the game's begun.
When the game is over,
  The yells then die away;
"Wasn't it disgraceful—
  The way our team did play?"

Soft, faint glimmers of the moon reflected themselves on the creek, some the color of silver, and some the color of dull yellow gold, and some the color of long, thin splashes of LaKay wine. They glimmer, and reflect in the changing waters as dancing elfs over the cool green. They change swiftly to the color of peacock feathers fringed with flame. The banks of Silver Creek are covered with dark mysterious shadows oddly in keeping with the creek's fickle shimmering light.

I am watching all this with a Senior girl. She is charming. And I feel that I should ask her for a Commencement date. But I have broken so many with her that I am afraid to repeat.

Mr. Hickman (looking at a long line of radicals)—Something is radically wrong with this problem.

NEWSY NOTES

While surveying the K. & I. bridge from the muddy banks of the Ohio, one of the boys lost his equilibrium and formed a precipitate in the mud.

BIG BOW-WOW HELD.

On May 4, Miss Vesta Rhea Simmons entertained for her dog, Collie Simmons, which had been presented to her two weeks before. The occasion was the fourteenth anniversary of the presentation. Decorations were dogwood blossoms and souvenirs of old shoes were given to the guests. There were barks of delight when a dozen cats escaped from a bag and an exciting chase followed. Sport K. Seigle received the prize, a new collar, for capturing the greatest number of cats. After refreshments of meat and dog biscuits, the guests took a waggish leave of their host and hostess.

There once was a "brother" named Bence,
Who could talk without making sense;
A person he'll grab,
And begin to gab,
Without giving time for defense.

THE REVERIE OF A SENIOR BOY.

I like little Freshmen,
With ribbons a flutter
And curls astray,
Little Freshmen with smooth pink cheeks
And freckled noses,
And shy, pink blushes
That come and go.

I like neat little Freshmen,
In stiff white middies
With blue collars and bright red ties,
Little Freshmen with clean little faces
And big soft curls, well brushed,
And restless tongues
That are never still.

I like little Freshmen.

PATRIOTISM.

To show her patriotism, Martha Montgomery has planted a garden in her back yard. To hoe it, she has to stand outside, for its dimensions are so small, that if she stood within its boundaries she would succeed only in digging up the ground outside.

ADVERTISING

IN these pages the business men of New Albany offer their wares. They have paid for the space in order to help the Annual. What commercial value there is in it, neither they nor we can say. This they have done for the sake of the High School—that the "Blotter" might live. Show your appreciation by reading these pages and patronizing New Albany's merchants.

An Exposition

Our Big Third Floor display of "Home Needs and Comforts" is an elaborate Exposition of all that is new for the home. This wonderful showing merits a visit from you.

The Value of Being Normal

"Normal: Pertaining or conforming to a more or less permanent standard."
—Standard Dictionary.

There you have this Store's cardinal rule to a nicety.

There is an oft-quoted couplet from Pope's "Essay on Criticism," which says:

"Be not the first by whom the new are tried—
"Nor yet the last to lay the old aside"

Neither faddish, nor yet stick-in-the-mud; holding fast to that which is good, yet quick to sense what is of real, enduring worth in the multitude of new ideas constantly cropping up—this is the golden mean to which this normal Store adheres.

The backbone of our business is found in our generous stocks of standard, always wanted merchandise. This we buy in quantities corresponding to the great demand for such things, and at the low prices which the size of our operations make possible.

Thus, the Store's object—to serve well the greatest possible number of people—is achieved; and it becomes what it should be a great Public Utility.

VALPARAISO UNIVERSITY

VAPARAISO, INDIANA

FOUNDED 1873

THE UNIVERSITY was founded with the idea of giving to every person the opportunity of obtaining a thorough, practical education at an expense within his reach. That such an institution is a necessity may be judged by the fact that each year since the beginning the attendance has been greater than that of the previous year.

It offers excellent equipment for doing the highest grade of work in the following twenty-two departments which it maintains:

Preparatory, High School, Primary Methods, Kindergarten Methods, Commerce, Phonography and Typewriting, Review for Teachers, Bible Study, Education, Arts and Sciences, Engineering, Architecture, Manual Training, Agriculture, Expression and Public Speaking, Music, Fine Art, Domestic Science, Pharmacy, Law, Medicine and Dentistry.

The expenses are the lowest. Tuition $20 per quarter of twelve weeks or $75.00 per year of forty-eight weeks if paid in advance. Board with furnished room $39.00 to $51.00 per quarter.

For Catalog Address,

HENRY B. BROWN, President,
or OLIVER P. KINSEY, Vice-President.

The Forty-Third year will open September 18, 1917.

'TWAS EVER THUS

It was their last date. Early in the morning he was to leave with the cavalry. She twined her Mary Pickford curl about her finger and with drooped eyes she murmured: "You won't forget me, will you?" He answered soulfully, "How could I ever forget those blue eyes?"

* * * * *

For days now he had been conscious of a strange girl, caring for his wounds. At first it was like a dream, but now as he held her soft hands and looked into those large brown eyes, he knew that it was a reality and murmured, "My love!" and then she smiled back, "Your first?" He held her hands more tightly and answered, "Yes."
